A German military spokesman was quoted by the Berlin radio as saying Gen. Eisenhower had thrown 70 divisions into the offensive along the Western Front, which would mean a minimum of 850,000 combat troops lined up against the outnumbered Germans. The broadcast said the crucial fighting of the war was in the Aachen area on a sector 16 miles wide and nine miles deep.

Almost 1,300 American heavy bombers, climaxing a crushing 48-hour bomb offensive against German rail and oil targets, struck at four synthetic refineries in the Leipzig area and the rail yards at Saarbrucken.

IN CERTAIN AGES

DALLAS, Nov. 30.—(Spl.)—The late Mrs. Sallie Truett Penland of Whitewright and Waco, the only sister of the late Dr. George W. sister of the late Dr. George W. Truett, will be honored by the dedication to her memory of the chapel to be incorporated in the Truett Memorial Building at Baylor University Hospital

Memorial Building at Baylor University Hospital.

A gift of $18.000 to underwrite the building of the chapel, adjoining the chaplain office in the projected new 400-bed structure, has been made by her sons, the Penland brothers of Dallas and Waco.

and intimate family friends.

The room of worship, as it is planned, will provide a secluded recess for meditation and prayer for distressed and sorrowed families of sink patients. Sunday school and non-sectaring church services.

for distressed and sorrowed families of sick patients. Sunday school and non-sectarian church, services will be conducted there each Sunday morning, it is planned, for students, visitors and patients wishing to attend. It will be used also as a center for religious activities of students of the University School of Nursing.

Mrs. Penland, the widow of the late J. A. Penland, was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Truett of Whitewright. She was the mother of seven sons, six of whom are living. She was born and reared in Whitewright, and spent the last twenty years of her life in Waco, where she died in 1936, and is buried. Like her renowned brother, Dr. Truett, she was interested throughout her adult life in Baylor University, and gave much time to work in its behalf in her later years after her family of boys was raised, friends recalled.

Fifty units and departments of the projected Truett Building, including many rooms for private patients, have been underwritten by donors of memorial or designated gifts ranging from $1200 to $50,000. More than 4000 persons have consifts ranging from $1200 to $50,000. More than 4000 persons have contributed to the general fund for crection of the building and new structures for the Baylor College of Dentistry and the University School of Nursing.

Modern Youth and Their Religion Is Heard By PTA

"Youth of today are as fine as any youth the world has ever known," stated Rev. J. I. Cartlidge in a discussion of "Modern Youth and Their Religion" at the regular meeting of the Sam Houston Pa-rent-Teacher Association on Tues-day afternoon. Juvenile delinquency is no new problem, the speaker stated, but parents themselves are to blame for the world in which boys and girls find themselves, the speaker declared.

The youth of today are imbued with enthusiasm, faith and vision, but they now find themselves in but they now find themselves in a lawless, drunken, warring, scientific and materialistic world for which they are in no way responsible, the speaker stated.

Parents and teachers, it was brought out, have a great responsibility in laying foundations that will prepare boys and girls for life in a changing world. Home, school and spiritual agencies are wielding a great influence on the youth of today, who will be the citizenship of tomorrow's world, the speaker declared, in his warm appraisal of boys and girls of the present gen-Accordion Numbers.

Mrs. A. H. Auld introduced the speaker for the afternoon, and presented Mrs. Lynne Wortham in the accordion interpretations of the accordion interpretations of Brahm's "Waltz in A Flat" and the Rodriquez tango, "La Cumparsita."

qualifications.

In taking the senate floor to oppose the apponiment in a move he conceed probably would be without any other member's support, the gaunt North Dakota legislator told his colleagues they would regret any "hasty decision" they might make. Stettinius was appointed this week to fill the post vacated by Secretary of State Hull because of ill health.

Asserting that Stettinius, former chairman of United States Steel, had been brought into the government "under the benevoient influence of Mr. Harry Hopkins, who has been his guiding star for many vears." Langer asserted the nomince had followed a "do nothing" policy as a member of the National Defense Council in charge of raw materials.

Says Stettinius Held Back.

When the need came for an incerase in stel production in 1940, Langer sa'd Stettinius "hung back and would not authorize or plan for more steel production." He contended that Stettinius, along with J. P. Morgan & Co. did not want steel mills built in the west.

DESTITUTE IN CITY GIVEN ASSISTANCE BY UNITED CHARITIES

ACTIVITIES OF ORGANI-ZATION FOR PAST THREE MONTHS REPORTED

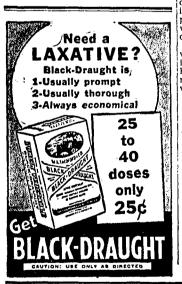

The continued need for United Charities work was stressed at the monthly board meeting of the organization held at the 109 1-2 South Main street office Tuesday, with W. P. McCammon presiding in the absence of President Robert Cason.

crowds around the office, we are not doing anything. They do not understand that we try to take care of the people in their homes. If they are sick, we permit them to telephone."

Aid for Children.

She pointed out that the organization tries to prevent children who are helped from being embarrassed. Therefore, children's ciothes are so distributed that they will not be recognized as clothes which have been donated to charity. "We like for anyone to feel happier when he leaves the office than he felt when he entered it," she said.

Miss Helm also explained that with W. P. McCammon presiding in the absence of President Robert Cason.

The secretary's report showed that during the last three months came 50 destitute families have been furnished milk, medicines, food, clothing, bedroom furniture and other needs. Of all these families, but two of them had an ablebodied man who could do any work to support them.

Many Afflicted.

Miss Augusta Helm, executive secretary, explained that aithough there is more employment than ever before, the need for charity work still exists. This is because many are afflicted with tuberculosis, cancer, heart disease, mental disabilities and others. Therefore, many individuals are unable to do any work and must depend on charity.

The idea of the ingratitude of charity cases has been greatly overdrawn, according to Miss Helm. She gave many illustrations to make each person receiving help a better citizen. It takes more than money to do this, she explained. "Our work she said." Is to try to elevate people. Many think that because there are no crowds around the office, we are not doing anything. They do not the first that the rest to the Air Mee season.
